

Appendix 3 – Acknowledgements

The Bremerhaven Workshop was organised under the auspices of the International Council for the Exploration of the Sea (ICES) and the International Oceanographic Commission (IOC); it was initiated and organised by the ICES Working Group on the Biological Effects of Contaminants and the IOC Group of Experts on the Effects of Pollution. We acknowledge the commitment of the respective Chairmen of these 2 groups, Dr F. Thurberg and Dr B. L. Bayne. Within the sponsoring organisations we are grateful to Drs J. Pawlak and G. Kullenberg for their unfailing support for the workshop and related activities.

Central to the success of the workshop was the support of our hosts, the Alfred Wegener Institute for Polar and Marine Research. We thank the Director, Professor Dr G. Hempel, who invited the workshop to his laboratory, and his staff, who helped with many of the problems that arose. In particular all those involved would like to thank Dr E. Rachor for his wholehearted commitment to the workshop. We also acknowledge Professor Dr W. Ernst, who allowed us to use laboratories and facilities in his department.

While the participants were based at the Alfred Wegener Institute, the workshop was essentially sea-going and depended crucially on the vessels that were generously made available to us. We acknowledge the involvement of the Institute's own vessel, the RV 'Victor Hensen', and RV 'Valdivia' of the University of Hamburg. In addition we thank the Dutch North Sea Directorate for their commitment to the workshop and the involvement of RV 'Holland', and the Netherlands Institute for Sea Research (NIOZ) for RV 'Aurelia'. We thank the Bundesforschungsanstalt für Fischerei for the use of RV 'Solea' and RV 'Walther Herwig' and the Biologische Anstalt Helgoland for RV 'Friedrich Heincke'.

The UK Department of the Environment were major sponsors providing funding for the workshop itself and for 2 chemists who assisted with analyses of samples. We acknowledge the involvement of Drs R. Otter and C. Reid. We also thank Dr M. Nanke of the International Maritime Organisation for providing funding for the participation of 2 overseas scientists.

During the planning stages we were grateful for the wise counsel of Professors A. MacIntyre and I. Dundas. We also thank Mary Brinsley and David Lowe for their help in organising the administration and logistics of the workshop; Julia Crocker who conscientiously typed, checked and reformatted much of the volume, Lore Rennart for secretarial, and Jonna Dethlefsen and Sabine Torbohm for general assistance to the co-ordinators during the workshop.

A number of other organisations contributed to the workshop in various ways, for which we give our thanks. These include Cell Systems, Carl Zeiss, Aktion Seeklar, Umweltbundesamt, Fischwirtschaftliches Marketing Institut (FiMA) and Schutzgemeinschaft Deutsche Nordseeküste.

Unforeseen costs were incurred in preparation of this Special Volume for publication, not least because of the size of the volume and our wish not to constrain unduly the account of the Workshop and the publication of data that resulted. A number of organisations helped us to cover these additional costs at a late stage. These were our major sponsors IOC and ICES, with contributions from Rijkswaterstaat (Tidal Waters Division) in The Hague and Nederlandse Aardolie Maatschappij bv, the owners of the drilling site.