Encouraging encounters: unusual aggregations of bowhead whales Balaena mysticetus in the western Fram Strait

Marijke N. de Boer*, Nicole Janinhoff, Griet Nijs, Hans Verdaat

*Corresponding author: marijke.deboer@wur.nl

Figure S1. Bowhead whales (Balaena mysticetus) photographed in (A, C) open water and (B) along very close drift ice. Bowhead whale (D, E) resting with northern fulmar (Fulmarus glacialis) feeding on peeling skin/parasites and (F) surfacing with mouth open. (G) Fluking whale and (H) whale surfacing in 2018. Photo credits: Cor Visser (A); Carlos De Wagter (B); Bart Van Gelder (C), Marijke de Boer (F), Hans Verdaat (D, E, G, H)